

The work incorporating an element of this product is given through license to be used for commercial and non-commercial releases to the original purchaser, whose name appears in the “credits” of said work.

The legal right to use the contents of the product in “original” musical releases, soundtracks, advertisements, television and film productions is given only to the original purchaser. Using the content of this product or part of it through the remixing of “original” musical compositions also requires the purchase of a license prior to the release of said compositions.

The legal right to use this product by any person may be challenged through requirement of the displaying of proof of purchase. Said proof must show that the release of the work that includes copyrighted content has occurred after the purchase.

SpillAudio retains the copyright of this product and any content included, such as sounds, samples, loops, MIDI files, sequencer projects and audio demos. Tampering, soliciting, sharing, trading, re-selling, duplicating, copying or lending of this content is unauthorised by SpillAudio and is prohibited by international copyright law.

Any persons, company or individuals who fail to comply with the terms of this legal agreement will be taken action against by SpillAudio.